

Before I die...

Join us for three distinct programs that celebrate the Arts and the unique voice of Oceanside. On June 15, renowned spoken-word poet Ant Black will host a workshop that will use the Before I Die theme and language as inspiration for participants to create original poetry. And on June 22, Ant Black will return for a special performance that touches on the pertinent themes that emerge from Oceanside residents sharing their aspirations on the Before I Die wall.

Before I Die Project Unveiling
Friday, June 1, 5:00 p.m., Civic Center Plaza

Before I Die Poetry Workshop
Friday, June 15, 6:00 p.m., Civic Center Library Community Rooms

Spoken Word Performances BY ANT BLACK & workshop participants
Friday, June 22, 6:00 p.m., Civic Center Library Plaza

Before I Die is a global art project that invites people to contemplate mortality and share their personal aspirations in public. This participatory public art piece is part of a project sponsored by the California Center for the Book's grant program, "Californians: Community Conversations About the Arts." Parts of the wall will travel to various locations throughout Oceanside, in an effort to get wide-spread public participation in this powerful project.
