

Teen Book Reviews

Out of tune

by Nora McClintock

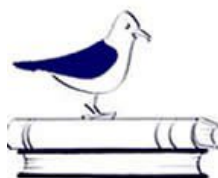

Review by: Valerie F.

Genre: Mystery

Summary: In this book, a girl from a small town named Alicia has been murdered and no one knows who killed her. Many people look for clues to see who did it, but one curious girl named Riley devotes her time to find out who killed Alicia. With the help of her best friend, Riley goes around town looking for clues and speaking to everyone to see if she can solve this murder.

Opinion: The author's writing style is simple but creative. It is easy to understand, but she is able to use imagery to create a picture in your head. The author's writing style also makes the story exciting. This is a great mystery book for teen readers. I would recommend this book to my friends.
