Greenlights*
by Matthew McConaughey
Three words... AUDIO AUDIO AUDIO. I'm sure the written word is just as good but with Matthew McConaughey narrating his own book - just listen. Many times if I wasn't sitting in my car I probably would have fallen off my chair laughing. Mr. McConaughey is a great story teller and quite the character. Wonderful!

The Dutch House*
by Ann Patchett
I loved this story of the relationship between a brother and sister - siblings who have been wronged by a wicked stepmother. No, it's not a fairy tale, just a wonderful tale of familial relationships. But what put it over the top is Tom Hank's narration. Fantastic!

Dolores Claiborne
by Stephen King
Having been suspected of being involved in the death of her rich employer, Dolores Claiborne tells the story of her life to the police. It's different from King's "supernatural" genres though there is a touch of the supernatural in it. The audio narrated by Frances Sternhagen is amazing!

Best Day Ever
by Kaira Rouda
A great, and sometimes funny, domestic thriller. Paul and Mia are heading out to spend a weekend alone without their kids, or work interference, at their lake house. Paul was hoping to create 'The Best Day Ever' for his wife- but things are not quite working out as he planned. Narration by Graham Halstead is spot on!
