Planting Natives for Songbirds with Pam Golben

Tuesday, November 5th at 5:30 pm

There are many native flowers, shrubs and trees that support our songbirds through the seasons. Learn about a variety of plants native to New York that provide food and shelter for birds while also providing nectar and pollen for our pollinators. You will receive a resource list to help you find which plants will grow in your area and what benefits they provide, as well as a free packet of native seeds. Ages 7+

Registration is required. Register online or by calling (845)888-8004.
